

Senior Resource Guide

for Asotin, Clarkston, and Lewiston

Edition 2

This Senior Resource Guide was developed by Asotin County Health District to provide informational support for seniors and their caregivers in the Lewis-Clark Valley. Much of the information was gathered by websites. Please be aware that information on websites and services provided may change. If agencies have changes that need to be made or your agency is not represented please contact Asotin County Health District at 509-552-4538 or lhersey@ac-hd.org

Asotin County Health District policy is to provide informational referrals rather than to recommend specific service providers. Please take the time to research the providers and make a decision that best fits your needs.

Table of Contents

The housing section is not alphabetized. Housing is listed from independent living facilities, to more advanced levels of residents care. The rest of this resource guide is alphabetized.

Homecare

Homecare is sometimes used as an umbrella term for any care a senior receives at home. However, homecare primarily means personal care, and companionship services. Homecare is not medical care.

Adult Day Care/ Respite Care

Seniors who need someone to care for them throughout the day, such as when a caregiver is at work, should consider adult day care. Adult day care can be a more affordable option compared to full-time care or housing for seniors. In addition, some adult day care centers offer care that extends into the evening hours. Adult day care does not provide a high level of care, such as special care for individuals with severe mobility issues.

Respite care is short term stays that can be up to 14 days.

Continuing Care Retirement Community

A Continuing Care Retirement Community, or CCRC, allows a senior to move from one level of care to the next within the same facility. With CCRC, senior housing options are based on the resident's current level of care.

Assisted Living/Skilled Nursing Facilities

Assisted living communities are for people who want to come and go as they please, usually they can drive their own cars. The residents have the opportunity to eat in their apartments or go to the dining hall. There are a few nurses on staff if needed, but the residents need to be pretty independent as far as bathing themselves and getting around. Some of these facilities are combined with Skilled Nursing Facilities. Skilled Nursing Facilities (formally none as Nursing Homes) are for seniors who require constant medical attention, and supervision, or specialized care for health issues. Many of these facilities also have memory care units.

Small Family Home Care Centers

The following facilities are similar to an assisted living facility, but they are smaller residences of 20 or fewer residents who live in private or shared rooms. These facilities have staff available 24/7 to help with activities of daily living. They usually include meals and some have skilled nursing or medical care.

Memory Care Facilities

Seniors who suffer from dementia, including Alzheimer's disease are dealing with degenerative brain loss. This results in a loss of memory and the ability to think clearly. Seniors who are diagnosed with dementia or Alzheimer's may need to live in a senior housing facility that offers specialized memory care.

Hospice Care

At the end stage of life, hospice care is commonly utilized by caregivers, seniors, and their families. The families can opt for hospice care in a facility, such as a nursing home, or at home. The goal of hospice care is to provide the patient with dignity and support, including emotional, physical, or pain management. Hospice provides grief counseling for individuals who have lost a loved one, even if hospice services are not used.
